

Effective Human Relations - Keys to Developing Good People Skills

In today's complex business environment, you have to learn to work with people, in a positive way to achieve your organizational goals. Boards, Management and employees must be able to work well with others. Without a stable and inviting workplace culture, difficult challenges can arise in both the managing of employees and in the organization's bottom line. It is vital for persons entering the workforce to be aware of the various changes and of the necessity to work and get along with each other. Learning to appreciate differences is now a workplace requirement.

The use of proper human relations skills not only helps persons to get along with their peers, but also increases their productivity. Human relations and interpersonal communication skills are essential to working effectively in any organization. KAW will be providing an interactive and informative Training Session, which will assist participants in developing and bettering their human relations skills, and also help them to understand the nuances of relating to people in a professional manner.

This Training Session will take place on June 16th, 2016 and will run for three (3) hours from 5:00pm - 8:00pm at Nevis Co-operative Credit Union Conference Room, Chapel Street, Charlestown, Nevis. Cost for this three (3) Hour Training Session is EC$300.00. Certificates will be awarded to the participants of Session. Training materials and snacks will also be provided to participants.
